MURDERED IN SALISBURY.

Frank Averitt A Young Machinist The Victim.

IT OCCURRED IN A POOL ROOM.

Gilmore Hammond Fired Two Shots into His Victim--The Town Greatly Excited.

Special to THE TELEGRAM.

Frank Averitt a young machinist, from Nashville, was shot and instantly killed in Salisbury yesterday by Gilmore Hammond. The tragedy occurred in a pool room. The murdered man was advancing on Hammond with a cue, when the fatal shot was fired. Hammond was committed to jail without bail to await the November term of court. The town was greatly excited over the tragedy.

Staff Correspondence.

Salisbury, N. C., Oct. 23.—Entering an old-fashioned, plain brick jail building, three stories high, up two flights of stairs, between winding white washed walls, and through three barred and bolted doors, we were ushered into the presence of Gilmore Hammond, the murderer of Frank Averitt. He was securely lodged in a front cell, which contained an unsubstantial looking pallet and several papers scattered around.

We were introduced to the prisoner through the small checks between the huge iron bars of the door. He seemed very pleasant and in good humor.

Through the grates we shoved a Charlotte Observer and asked him if the account of the tragedy was correctly reported.

He was indignant over one statement and said it was a lie, but immediately retracted and asked that nothing be said about that until he had a talk with his counsel.

"Just say," he replied, "that I am feeling right bad and don't feel like saying anything; don't think I ought to make any statement; it might do me harm; only one side of it has been given so far; they were all state's witnesses; none of my witnesses have been examined yet."

Hammond's side of the affair is in substance as follows:

Was sitting at a table in Chultz's billiard room, playing cards with another fellow. Averitt came in and cursed a 16-year old boy in the room. Hammond remonstrated, when Averitt called him a name which he declared he would not take. Averitt repeated the epithet and attacked Hammond with a billiard cue, when the defendant shot him through the heart.

When the prisoner's attention was called to the fact that he was reported to have shot at Averitt and missed and then after leaving the room to have turned and fired the bullet which proved fatal, he said:

"That's the way they say it was, but the man who did the shooting didn't do that way. It was just this way," he said, raising his hand and jerking his finger twice as if firing two successive times with a pistol.

While Hammond was reading the Observer by the light that came faintly down through a huge window in the rear of the cell, your correspondent was closely examining his make-up through the grated door. He is heavily built, very dark, has straight black hair, retreating forehead, and clear dark eyes. His general appearance would seem to substantiate the statement that he had Indian and negro blood in his veins.

He said that the people of the town seemed to be more excited about the affair than he was. He was confident that the results of the trial would be favorable to him and said that neither his fright or his hard bed had prevented him from sleeping soundly the night before.

There is an ugly bruise on the prisoners left arm where the cue struck him and he said that his left shoulder was also sore from the effects of a stroke. Hammond's father is a shoemaker, living in Salisbury, where the boy was raised. Gilmore was idle at the time of the murder. "I intended to go to work Monday, he said, but don't reckon I will now though," he added, smiling rather grimly. He stated that he had come to Salisbury from Durham about three weeks ago.

Hammond has a very unsavory reputation and his former rowdyism will work against at the trial. He was intimate with a disreputable woman, Eva Dare, and declared to the deputy who carried him to his cell, that his only regret was that he would be separated from her.

Frank Averitt, the murdered man has parents and a brother and sister living in Nashville, Tenn. Up to eleven o'clock this morning nothing had been heard from them. One account of the ghastly tragedy states that after Hammond had fired and left the room, that Averitt was standing leaning on the cue, when the fatal shot was fired. He fell forward on his face, breaking the cue, which lay beneath his breast. After being shrowded, the dead mans body was laid out in the upper hall of Mrs. H. A. Kimball's boarding house. There was a wound on his chin and his forehead was bruised and purple. He had a good face and up to this time was not known to be given to dissipation.

Averitt was a strong, stalwart man who worked in the round-house of the Southern's shops. He weighed 210 pounds.

The sentiment in Salisbury is adverse to Hammond. It is said that there are witnesses yet unexamined whose testimony will be very damaging to him.

The World came out in a extra last night with a brief account of the crime. J. J. Murphy and Pat Butler, it says, two fellow workmen of Averitt, were the only eye-witnesses of the murder.

Citizens of a Mexican City Greatly Alarmed—Engine Broke World's Record for a Long Distance.

By Wire To THE TELEGRAM.

Tehuantepec, Mex., Oct. 23. — Residents of this city are much alarmed by by the subterranean roarings which are heard almost constantly. The city was recently nearly destroyed by an earthquake. It is feared that the rumbling now being heard are the forerunners of more quakes or of volcanic eruptions.

The Race Against Time.

By wire to THE TELEGRAM.

Mobile, Ala., Oct 23.—Frank Fowler, a Cincinnati insurance man, charted a special engine and sleeping car started last night 779 miles south to Mobile, thinking his sister-in-law was dying of yellow fever. He broke the record for long distance riding, making the distance in nine hours and twenty minutes. The authorities refused to permit him to see her as it was a mild case.

METROPOLITAN HIGH POINT.

Horse Runs Down Main Street--Dog and Pony Show Coming.

TELEGRAM BUREAU,
HIGH POINT, N. C., Oct. 23, '97.

The monotony on Main street was broken yesterday afternoon by a lively run-away. Mr. J. R. Pickett's horse was standing hitched to a dray in front of Pickett's store having his forelock trimmed. The bridle had been removed and so when the animal decided to run, there were no means by which to check him. He scorched along the sidewalk, which was fortunately clear of passengers until Ingram's store was passed and then split the street wide open until he reached his owners lot a half mile distance when a halt was made. The wagon and harness were damaged.

High Point has not been favored by the presence of any very famous operatic troupes this season, but I am glad to announce that in a few days we will have the pleasure of witnessing a dog and pony show. G. W. Irwin's carnival and pony exhibition is billed for Jarrell's Hall on October 28th. Exhibition will be for the benefit of the band.

High Point's furniture exhibition at Raleigh has excited considerable complimentary comment.

A. P. Chaffin, of the Southern railroad, was registered at the Jarrel yesterday.

Mr. J. Ed. Lewis, our erstwhile friend, has found the journalistic field in High Point too barren of results and has severed his connection with the Citizen. Mr. Lewis left for Greensboro this morning.

FERRY BOAT ON FIRE.

Wild Panic Among the Passengers But no One Hurt.

By Wire to THE TELEGRAM.

Philadelphia, Oct. 23.—The ferry boat to Camden caught fire during the trip this morning. A panic ensued as the passengers crowded out of the cabins and for a time it looked as if many would be pushed overboard. All steam was put on and the boat reached the landing, saving all the passengers. Firemen then saved part of the boat.

Saw it by Gaslight.

Pleased with their trip on Thursday last three ladies repeated their visit last night and inspected the "New Blandwood" by gaslight.

Accompanied by Mrs. Banks, Col. Osborne and others their walk through its spacious halls and cheerfully lighted corridors proved thoroughly enjoyable. (Two of these were the prettiest kind of single girls).

There are few more elegant homes for either ladies or gentlemen in North Carolina, and not one more comfortable than the Greensboro Keeley Institute presents this day.

The unfortunate everywhere and this community in particular are very largely indebted to Col. Osborne and Mr. Gray for the same.

Thanks The Ladies.

Keeper Smith, who was so seriously injured by the elephant at the circus and is now in the Astly-Cooper hospital desires to thank, through the management, the ladies who have sent him flowers and delicacies.

ASHEVILLE NATIONAL BANK.

Reasons Assigned for Closing its Doors.

The officials of the bank gave the the following notice to the Citizen:

"Asheville, N. C., Oct. 22.

"To the Public:

"The board of directors of the National Bank of Asheville have after most careful consideration, decided that it is not prudent or fair to the creditors of the bank, and to the public, to attempt to carry on business and that a liquidation of its affairs, under the provisions of the National banking act, is the wisest course.

"This result is due to the inability of the bank to enforce the prompt collection of debts due it, and to the steady withdrawals of deposits since the first of August last; and not from any losses from loans made or management of its business within the last four years.

"We believe that the assets of the bank, will if prudently managed, be sufficient to pay all depositors and other creditors in full. Time, however, will be required to collect and distribute these assets.

"W. T. WEAVER, President,
"W. B. WILLIANSON, Cashier."

Captured the Villain.

By Wire to THE TELEGRAM

Norwalk, Conn., Oct. 23.—Owen Murphy, who threw vitrol on Jennie Kinsella and Mary Troy, last Thursday night, was captured this morning. He resisted arrest stubbornly, was roughly handled and landed in jail.

Murphy is closely guarded, as it is feared the mill hands will do him harm, as they have made threats to that effect. Murphy denies the story.

THE Greensboro football team seems to have "lost all save honor" thus far in the season.

THE Caucasian continues to uproot "deep-laid political plots" at the rate of one or two uproots per week.

THE question is, who is minding the baby and John J. Ingalls while Mrs. Lease is swelling the mad festivities in Gotham?

IT is safe to say that the prediction of "political experts," that Tracy will carry New York by 36,000 votes will turn out to be "expert testimony."

THE signs of ill humor appearing in a certain esteemed contemporary may be taken as an indication that the snake season is beginning to wane.

ABOUT the worst fooled lot of people in this country would be the jury and prosecutors in the Luetgert case, if the much wanted woman were to put in an appearance.

LUETGERT being off the scene there is no longer any reason for keeping Martin Thorn and Mrs. Nack in suspense. Let us hear from the experts how many heads Guldensuppe had.

THE ejection of Anthony Comstock from a New York Police court probably resulted from a belief on the part of the judge that his sensibilities might be seriously shocked by the proceedings.

IT is an instance of great forbearance that the distinguised German professor who declared kissing to be a very unhealthy practice has not been imprisoned by Emperor William for lese-majeste.

THE Japanese and Russians are furnishing their quota to the war talk of the day. Japan is building barracks and Russia is obtaining coaling stations near Korea. Japan's case of swell head will be materially suaged if she ever comes to hugs with the Russian bear.

THE removal of Schroeder, Professor of dogmatic theology in the Catholic University at Washington after the Pope had advised to the contrary is evidence of a growing spirit of independence in American Catholics. It is not at all improbable that the implicit obedience to the Holy See which has marked the actions of Catholics throughout the world may be materially modified in this country in the course of time.

SPAIN'S reply to the representations of Minister Woodford is not calculated to put the relations of the two nations on a more pleasant footing. In fact, if this country did present anything in the nature of an ultimatum, Spain has called the bluff pretty plainly. It will scarcely lead to war, because the pressure of public opinion on the Washington authorities is weakening. With characteristic fickliness the masses are losing interest in Cuba and sympathy for the insurgents is less pronounced than it was three or four months ago. When left to themselves, in this day and time, diplomats will usually find a way to avoid coming to blows. A good deal of loud talk from those who have no influence in the matter one way or the other, a fresh burst of correspondence between Washington and Madrid and the incident will be forgotten.

SATURDAY'S LITERARY CHAT.

[All books and magazines mentioned below may be had at Wharton's book store.]

THE new magazines are not coming in yet, except a stray one here and there, Frank Leslie's and the Metropolitan being about the only numbers for November.

Frank Leslie's has a rather entertaining paper on Andrew Jackson with a promise of others to follow. There is a new version of the Jackson-Dickinson duel detailed, and other matters. It is really wonderful in how many ways that duel was fought. There are so many versions the most fastidious must find one to please. Take your choice. The magazine also has an article on the Moqui Indian snake dance, which makes entertaining reading, even for those who have read of it before.

IN the light of the present disturbances in British India, "His Majesty's Greatest Subject," by S. S. Thorburn, may be of more interest than merely to pass a few pleasant hours of reading. As a novel pre se, it would be worthy of but passing comment, for none of the characters are convincing, but are mere puppets who form a medium for the author's views on the government of India, and his idea of the remedy for the existing evils.

IF you are reading simply to pass away an idle hour or so, and do not care to overtax your brain with much of a plot or get excited over thrilling situations, you might do worse than to pick up this little story of a man, a boy, a woman and a few other women, entitled, "The First Families," by Richard Mace. You might also do a great deal better.

The foliowing lines, by Eugene Field, some years ago, appear almost prophetic in the light of the Sun's brief notice of Editor Dana's death:

"But bless ye, Mr. Dana! may you live a thousan' years,
To sort o' keep things lively in this vale of human tears;
An' may I live a thousan', too—a thousan' less a day,
For I shouldn't like to be on earth to hear you'd passed away.
And when it comes your time to go
you'll need no Latin chaff,
Nor Biographic data put in your epitaph;
But one straight line of English and of truth will let folks know
The homage 'an the gratitude 'an reverence they owe.
You'll need no epitaph but this: "Here sleeps the man who run
That best 'nd brightest paper, the New York Sun."

The October number of the Guilford Collegian has just come in and deserves warm praise. The first contribution, "The Making of a Poet," a sonnet by "L. A.," is decidedly good—not good as compared with college poetry, but really good in itself. Worse has found its way into the pages of the large magazines. The absence of the amateurishness and sense of being forced that mar the usual college poem is refreshing. "Portia" and "Left" are well written, while "Der Melancholy Tays" is an excellent and obvious parody.

IN a certain college monthly, quite a good one by the way, that comes to the reviewer's desk there is a story. There are other magazines that have stories, but none that has a story like this story. We know of nothing in all the realms of literature comparable to it, save only the poetry of Mr. J. Gordon Coogler. We recently ran upon this couplet of Mr. Coogler's, which is at once a good standard to measure our story, and an excellent sample of the author's poetry. He raises the following plaint:

"Alas! for the South; her books are few;
She never was given to literature."

Alas! for Mr. Coogler that his books are not fewer, for he is not given to poetry. But to our story. The author calls it "Fidelis," after the young heroine, who is, of course, an orphan, the ward of a wealthy pair, who idolize her (they always do in the stories of very youthful authors) and the hero is a young man with dark hair and a high white forehead (as usual) and a big black cloud of misfortunes hangs over them, and they don't know a thing about it, etc. Of the author's language, we will, as in the case of Mr. Coogler, give only one example. The young lady is in a rose garden in the morning when the young gentleman suddenly appears, whereat a blush thoughtlessly rises up, "suffusing her cheek and tinting her hair." It is patent that the young author must be a connoisseur in blushes. Of all the dreadful things blushes have done, it is believed that this is the first time one ever tinted a lady's hair. Fancy a young lady with pink hair! We drop the curtain over the pair and the tint.

Some one has said "unless your thought packs easily in verse, use prose;" unless your imagination packs easily in fiction, better not write it at all. Along the right lines the young men of the south should be encouraged to cultivate a literary style and a literary spirit—there is a wide field and for the most part a fallow one, but it is impossible to encourage such attempts. Let the ambitious young writer keep within his limits, doing what can be done reasonably well.

"There you go again, tracking up my clean floor and fresh carpets with your muddy feet! Haven't I told you to wipe them before you come into the house?"

"Don't scold so, mother. I do try to get them clean, but I just can't do it with nothing but an old piece of carpet for a foot mat. If you'd just send down to Odell's and get one of their Cocoa mats, I'd promise you to give you no more trouble. I was down there yesterday, and they had just opened up the greatest lot of them—beauties. And the clerk said they are cheaper than ever."

By virtue of a judgment order entered in the said Superior Court at the June special term, 1896, thereof in the above entitled action and of another order made by said court at its August term, 1897., the undersigned Commissioner will sell for cash to the highest bidder at public auction, at the Court House door in Greensboro, North Carolina, on at 12 o'clock midday, or as soon thereafter as may be, the following described parcel of land situated in Morehead township, Guilford county and State of North Carolina, and described as follows, to wit:

Beginning at an iron stake in the edge of the main road leading through Warnersville to Asheboro, on the west side of said road, thence north 81½ deg, west 17 poles 4 links to an iron stake; thence north 17½ deg, east 4 poles to an iron stake; thence south 81½ deg. east 17 poles 4 links to an iron stake, in edge of said road; thence south 17½ degrees west with said road 4 poles to the beginning; being bounded on the south by Dorcas Scott's land; west by Emeline Jones; north by Gracie Waddy; east by Asheboro road; being lot conveyed to W. A. Day by Gracie Waddy by deed dated August 28th, 1889, recorded in book 84, page 659.

This sale will be made subject to the approval of the Court, and will be immediately reported to the Court for confirmation.

This 1st day of Oct. 1897.

R. D. DOUGLAS, Commissioner.

Administrator's Notice and Sale.

Having qualified as administrator of T. C. Lamb, deceased, late of Guilford county, N. C., before Ed. L. Ragan, clerk of the superior court of said county, I hereby notify all persons indebted to said estate to make immediate payment; and all persons having claims against said estate to present the same to me duly authenticated on or before the 10th day of September, 1898, or this notice will be plead in bar of their recovery.

This is also to give notice that at the late residence of said deceased in said county, I shall sell for cash to the highest bidder, on Thursday, the 30th day of September, 1897, the personal property of said estate, consisting of two mules, one horse, ten head of hogs, lot of wheat, lot of oats, farming and smith tools and other articles, too numerous to mention.

News of the Old North State.

A boiler exploded in Johnson county scalding one man to death.

The temperance question will figure in the next campaign in Raleigh.

A man and woman confined in jail at Newton were married yesterday.

Revenue officers made a raid yesterday seven miles from Raleigh and captured a moonshine outfit.

A proposition for a public library in Concord is being discussed by the citizens of that town, and is meeting with much favor.

The Review says that a gentleman from Danville is arranging for a bicycle meet at the Reidsville track about the sixteenth of November.

The Raleigh fair was a failure financially. The races yesterday were declared off and the management paid the freight on the horses to the next races.

At this term of Lenoir court Judge Green committed a man to jail for false swearing and delivered a lecture on the evils of perjury, whisky and concealed weapons.

The negro Sam Wright, who murdered W. A. Carr near Goldsboro on the 2d inst., has been convicted and sentenced to be hanged November 20. The evidence was circumstantial but conclusive.

L. C. Southard, president of the American invalids aid society, was in Charlotte yesterday. The News says he is locating points in this State where New England consumptives can settle with benefit.

Mrs. Susan Kellam, who lives near Price's, in this county, was robbed of $370 one day last week. There is no clue to the thief. Mrs. Kellam no doubt wishes now that she had deposited the money in a bank.—Reidsville Review.

It is learned that Gen Thomas Clingman, who was recently sent to the Morganton hospital from Yadkin county, is not expected to last long. His mind is nearly a blank, yet the other day he described his notable duel wit Yancy. His uniform as a confederate general is ready and in it he will be buried.

The Concord correspondent of the Charlotte Observer says: "Mr. J. S. Howe, of South Carolina, arrived in the city this morning with a large force of hands and 21 large mules. He will begin at once to build an extension of the sidetrack ot the Southern's line in this city, to 1,400 feet beyond Buffalo Thread Mills. This will then be one of the longest switches on the Southern's road. It will be used for the passing of trains."

The State Superintendent of Public Instruction writes the following letter in reply to enquiry: "A man who is engaged in the manufacturing and selling of spirituous liquors has no business in the school room to form and mould the characters of our boys and girls. Such a man is not likely to carry out section 1, chapter 169, laws of 1891. He would not be likely to tell his pupils that the business was destroying not only the bodies, but also souls of men. No, sir; do not grant a certificate to any such man."

Something to Depend On.

Mr. James Jones, of the drug firm of Jones & Son, Cowden, Ill., in speaking of Dr. King's New Discouery, says that last winter his wife was attacked with la grippe, and her case grew so serious that physicians at Cowden and Pana could do nothing for her. It seemed to develop into hasty consumption. Having Dr. King's New Discovery in store, and selling lots of it, he took a bottle home, and to the surprise of all she began to get better from first dose, and half dozen dollar bottles cured her sound and well. Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, coughs and colds is guaranteed to do this good work. Try it. Free trial bottles at C. E. Holton's drug store.

A Home Remedy

ENDORSED BY

Home People.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., April 5, 1895.

MRS. JOE PERSON,

Madam:—last year I was afflicted with some skin trouble affecting my feet, pronounced by my physician to be erythema. I was confined to my room for some two months and was lame for six months or more. After trying many remedies without effecting a cure, I resorted to your Remedy. After taking three bottles I began to improve, and before I had finished the fifth or sixth bottle I was practically free of the trouble. Once since then there recurred symptoms of its return, when I again resorted to your Remedy, and again the trouble disappeared. I believe I am indebted to you for relief from a very serious affliction.

Yours truly,
HAMILTON C. JONES.

Adolphus Brooks, of Glendon, came up today to visit his sister, Miss Annie Brooks, who has been very sick.

Rev. E. W. Smith will preach his "Ninth Sermon on Character," at the First Presbyterian church tomorrow night.

The Scalchi concert will begin promptly at 8:30 o'clock. President Peacock intends to maintain his reputation for promptness in this particular.

Romulus R. Cox, one of Forsyth's most successful and prominent farmers, was here last night, accompanied by his wife, returning home from the State fair.

Orders for tickets have been coming in for Scalchi from various sources. Winston-Salem will each send parties. High Point, Reidsville and other points will also be with us.

At the meeting of the board of aldermen last night noses were counted and a quorum not being present, no business was transacted. The meeting was deferred until next Tuesday night.

The depot and precincts thereabout were overrun last night between trains with warm sports who had been to Raleigh to see the races and were on the way back to their various stamping grounds.

Howard Gardner has been confiding various things about the virtues of Goosegrease Liniment and headache remedies to the willing ear of his gramophone and when the time in the old town gets too warm, a change is obtainable.

The travel continues haevy. All the hotels were filled again last night. Many travelling men come here on Friday and Saturday to spend Sunday. That is what comes of having a live town and excellent hotel accommodations.

At Centenary church tomorrow morning the pastor will open doors of church for the reception of new members. The weather the past week has been unfavorable but good has been done. The pastor will decide tomorrow as to the continuation of the meeting.

Rev. J. W. Lee returned last night from Charlotte, where his tent meeting has closed. There were over 200 converts at this meeting, and an anti-saloon league was organized with 600 members. Mr. Lee was forced to cancel his Salisbury appointment on account of the excessive work of the past two months, and will take a week or two of needed rest.

The reserved seats are about sold out at time of going to press, but every effort will be made to give those that get general admission tickets to the Scalchi concert good seats. The College chapel will seat nearly eight hundred and the gallery is just as good as down stairs to hear. 8:30 sharp is the hour. Tickets will be on sale at 7:30 at the college.

Cheap Gas.

Since October 1st, 1897, and forward, illuminating gas furnished at $2 per thousand feet, if bill is paid on presentation, provided the same amounts to $1 or more for each meter. Fuel gas for cooking purposes $1 per thousand feet, net.

ORGAN CONCERT FUND.

A Musical Treat But Very Poorly Attended.

The concert at the courthouse last night for the benefit of the West Market Street Church organ fund was attended by a very small audience. Yet, those who did attend were highly entertained. Each number was encored and responded to in a hearty manner. That the audience was well pleased is sufficiently proven by the outbursts of applause.

In the singing of Miss Orr and the recitations of Miss Cozart, the people were not disappointed. They were promised something rich, and received it.

Mr. Pfohl's solos, too, were excellent, and are worthy of special mention. The closing number, a quartette by Miss Caraway, Mrs. Albright, Mrs. Ireland and Miss Wood was sweet enough to lift you up above the ordinary cares of this world into a beautiful realm of enchantment.

Everybody was sorry when the concert closed. We are sorry, positively, for those who did not attend.

To hear the Scalchi company is not merely a matter of having an hour or two of good music. The great musical centers of the world have unanimously declared that she is one of the few very great singers of our time. You cannot afford to stay away. from the college tonight. The yellow fever further south and the breaking up of a grand opera in New York has contrived to give us this golden opportunity.
